UK BULLETIN BOARDS

All the above listed boards were active as of late September 1985. Circumstances may have changed since then and BEEBUG would appreciate members letting us know of any changes they have discovered such as boards that have ceased operating or changed times and baud rates. Also, if you know of a board that is not listed here, please let us know for the benefit of other members.

Some new boards, particularly NBBS and OBBS systems, enable Beeb owners with Commstar or the Demon Zromm to have colour. With Commstar use Mode 7 and switch off the filter mask at the command screen before entering 'Chat' mode. Zromm users should use Mode 7 and *Chat instead of *Terminal. Then when logged on answer 'Yes' to the question 'Are you using software on a BBC that allows colour'.

STAR SOFTWARE'S
6502 MACRO ASSEMBLER ROM
(for the BBC Micro)

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY PRICE
(FOR A LIMITED PERIOD ONLY)
R.R.P. £34.99
£24.99

Star Software's 6502 Macro Assembler ROM is the most useful utility so far devised for users of the BBC Micro wishing to take full advantage of the speed and efficiency of machine code programming, and to break free from the limitations of the standard BASIC assembler.
Macro Assembler programs may be built using any number of different source code files, each created using the BASIC interpreter, and held separately on tape, disk, and/or in RAM, and automatically merged together at assembly time, enabling machine code programs to be produced from source code files which, if taken together, would be many times too large to even fit into the BBC's memory. As a result, there is practically no limit to the size of the machine code programs which may be produced using the Assembler ROM. For example, assembling the source code files for the ROM itself (a total of over 70k of code) uses only 24% of the available capacity of a standard BBC Model B.
Advanced macro facilities, as well as many other features, make programs more readable and easier to write and maintain than standard BASIC assembler programs, and because source code can be spread across many separate files, programmers need no longer be shy of including helpful comments and indentations in their programs in order to save space.
Code may be assembled to load at any address, and automatically execute at any user definable point within the code.
Conditional assembly allows the same section of source code to produce different object code, at different times.
The Assembler uses standard 6502 mnemonics as well as the additional opcodes available with the newer 65C02 CPU (such as in Acorn's 6502 second processor).
The ROM will work across the tube with the 6502 second processor.
Now all users of the BBC Micro can produce large, professional machine code programs without recourse to expensive add-on hardware.

BEEBUG AT THE MICRO USER SHOW

BEEBUG (both software and magazines) will be at the Electron and BBC Micro User Show (14th - 17th November), and we hope to see you there.

We will not be attending the Acorn User Christmas Show the following weekend. The Micro User Show has traditionally been the BBC christmas show; it was arranged well in advance of the Acorn User Show, and in addition is, in our view, at a far superior venue.

All Beebug and Beebugsoft products will be available at our stand, and there will be special demonstrations of our new product range.

We look forward to seeing you at this show, or at the Acorn User Show next summer.

Simply light years ahead of the opposition

Opus announce the biggest disc drive breakthrough for years – CHALLENGER. It could make every other disc system for the BBC micro outdated overnight.

An amazing 3-in-1 design has produced Britain's first complete plug-in disc system for the BBC computer. No more complicated interface connections, soldering or track cutting, Challenger is an all-in-one disc system ready to plug straight into your computer. It's the simplest disc link-up ever and a winning combination that no other system can match.

5¼" DOUBLE-SIDED 40/80 TRACK DISC DRIVE

DOUBLE DENSITY DISC INTERFACE

SUPER FAST SOLID STATE RAM DISC – Up to 20 times faster than disc drive and providing a massive 256 K of RAM

ALL THIS IN A SINGLE UNIT FOR AN AMAZING £249.95

And just look at the storage capacity of this remarkable stand-alone system.

Our 5¼" disc drive and built in double-density disc interface – an extended version of the highly praised Opus DDOS, voted fastest system by 'Acorn User' and favourite choice of 'A & B Computing' – combine to give you a powerful 1 Megabyte system. But Challenger has a third dimension, a super fast Solid State RAM DISC for instant access to an additional 256 K of RAM. Effectively a lightning fast second disc drive which can be upgraded to ½ Megabyte capacity for only £49.95. It makes Challenger superior to a dual disc drive, giving faster access and less wear and tear on your drive.

Challenger uses the same disc controller chip as the new BBC B+ computer making it compatible with all leading software titles. Call us for our full compatibility listing.

We've provided a selection of utilities on ROM and Challenger's disc drive is 40/80 track switchable. The extended DDOS takes no User RAM, PAGE, the position at which BASIC programs load, is left unchanged, normally staying at &OEOO, and Challenger dynamically moves files on the disc to overcome the 'can't extend' problem.

Challenger's price of £249.95 includes our unbeatable two year warranty, a full operating manual, VAT and free delivery. Call us now on 0737-65080 for details of our nationwide dealer network or simply post the coupon below.

OPUS SUPPLIES THE DRIVE

The Opus disc drive range has few rivals for quality, reliability, and sheer value for money. We've taken the best in Japanese disc drive technology and backed it with Britain's longest guarantee – an amazing two years. For full details of our extensive range of half-height 5¼" disc drives together with information on your nearest stockist, 'phone 0737-65080.
